

Miss Jessie Bull Becomes The Bride of John Wells at Pretty Home Wedding

A pretty wedding service, which took place on Wednesday evening of the past week at 8:30 o'clock, Miss Jessie Bull, one of the daughters of Mrs. E. E. Bull, became the bride of John A. Wells.

The home of Mrs. Bull was decorated for the occasion with chrysanthemums and other flowers and the Rev. George McGinnis performed the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. The bride, unattended, was very attractive in her wedding frock of blue satin with arm bouquet of bride's roses.

After the wedding ceremony an informal reception was held and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells will make their home in this city and will be at home at 1215 Myrtle avenue. Mr. Wells' business interests being in El Paso.

Dinners and Luncheons.

Mrs. Julia E. Farnum entertained with a Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday evening at her home on North Davis street. Calls filled were the fragrant blossoms of decoration for the table of the service and the guest list included Mrs. S. A. Moody, mother of Mrs. Farnum; Mrs. Mary Van Murrick; Mrs. Gene Mathis; Mrs. Eudonia Perkins and Frank Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Oliver were hosts on Friday evening at a dinner of pretty arrangement given in honor of her sister, Mrs. Adrian Pool. Violet and Cecil Brunner were utilized in decorations for the dinner service and covers were placed for a group of intimate friends.

Many pretty social courtesies are being given for Miss Rebecca Singleton, of Wabashville, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Adrian Pool. One of these affairs was a luncheon given in compliment to her on Friday at Hotel Sheldon by Mrs. R. E. Thompson. After a luncheon service of dainty appointment, Mrs. Thompson and her guests attended a matinee. Covers were placed for Miss Singleton, Mrs. Pool, Mrs. Will T. Owen, Mrs. R. M. Dudley, Mrs. Jerome Darr, Sr., who recently arrived from Dallas; Mrs. W. D. Hull and the hostess.

In Norway the women have forced through a law requiring health certificates before marriage.

A Popular Society Girl

MISS SARAH BRIDGES, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bridges, one of the most charming society girls of the city. Miss Bridges has beauty of the dainty blond type and a most engaging and gracious manner. Miss Bridges was very active during the war days with patriotic work and was one of the group who made a success of the Red Cross shop. Now that the war is over and society has time for diversion and recreation, interest in social affairs is awakening and a very delightful innovation recently inaugurated are the riding classes at Fort Bliss for a charming coterie of society maids and matrons of the city and post. Miss Bridges is a skilful horsewoman and an enthusiastic member of the classes.

Receptions.

On Tuesday afternoon, following Julian Ellings' repulse at the Crawford theater, Mr. Ellings will hold a reception behind the scenes so that the maids and matrons who enjoyed his performance here may have an opportunity of personally meeting him. This reception was arranged by E. F. Maxwell, manager of the theater, upon the arrival of Mr. Ellings on Saturday.

Parties.

The Junior Council of Jewish Women will hold a regular meeting at Temple Mt. Sinai on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

LAZENBY IS BACK

FROM HIS TRIP EAST

F. H. Lazenby, of the Ross Rubber company, returned to El Paso this week after an extended trip through the north and east, reviewing 1930 contracts for his firm. In his swing around the circuit Mr. Lazenby visited Chicago, South Bend, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and New York. In talking to a Herald representative Mr. Lazenby said: "Those who live in El Paso and the great southwest should be happy with their lot. While money seems plentiful in the east and the Great White War in New York does not seem to suffer any set backs from war time prohibition, being in general a much simpler and cheaper down here."

Is Graceful Little Dancer

 ESTHER CALVERT PICKETT, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James A. Pickett, who danced as gracefully as a fairy from the land of fairy lore, in the Red Cross Follies given recently at Liberty hall. This was not the first time that little Miss Pickett has lent her talents for patriotic activities, for all during the war days she responded very graciously to many requests that she dance at various entertainments. This little maiden's mother also is one of the most active matrons of the city in assisting with Red Cross and other patriotic and philanthropic movements.

Many Students At School For Girls Visit Out Of The City For Holiday

THANKSGIVING has been very pleasantly spent at the El Paso School for Girls. A Thanksgiving dinner was given on Thursday and various amusements have entertained the pupils at school during the holidays. Numbers of girls living in near town went home for the holidays and were accompanied by other students or teachers as their guests. The girls will all arrive in the city on Sunday in time for the opening of school on Monday. Among those who are at home for the Thanksgiving holidays are: Miss Mary Lee, who went to her home in Alamogordo, accompanied by Miss Mary Dee Mair as her guest; Miss Elizabeth Pittsworth, who is spending the holiday at her home in Capitlan, New Mexico; Miss Katherine Spencer, with her guest, Miss Lois Lays, a teacher at the El Paso School for Girls, went to Carrizosa to spend the holiday at the Spence home; Miss Thelma and Zenta Dufosse went home to Caruth, New Mexico, and Miss Ruth Bursum is in Las Cruces for a visit to friends. Miss Willie Jerni went into the city to join her parents, who came to spend the holiday with her. The students at the school, with all of their good times and festivities attendant upon the happy season, were not forgetful of those less fortunate and gave liberally to the poor through the Associated Charities.
